The following information is designed to assist KMAC guides in developing more complete knowledge of your outdoor activity background. Cliff Camping involves high angle rock and exposure. Participants need to be able to ascend a fixed rope and be able to rappel. You will learn basic climbing knots and belaying skills prior to your cliff camp. In addition, participants spend many hours on the Porta Ledge sometimes more than 200 feet off the ground. This is what makes it exciting. This form is required to make sure your Cliff Camping experience is appropriate for you and to ensure that you will have a positive and beneficial experience.
